ABSTRACT

A pesticide formulation is described which contains at least one vegetable oil, at least one surfactant, and at least one type of azadirachtin. Preferably, the vegetable oil is at least a sesame seed oil and the surfactant is at least a non-ionic surfactant. The pesticide formulations of the present invention are preferably storage stable and are environmentally safe since preferably no organic solvents are present in the formulations.